Art Unit: 1711

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 8-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Takeda.

Takeda discloses an aqueous, dry laminate adhesive (paragraphs 10-11 of translation) comprising a water-borne polyurethane having at least two active hydrogens (paragraph 13) that softens below 40 deg. C and has a melt viscosity at 50 deg. of 60,000 Pa.s, a polyisocyanate crosslinker, an association polymer thickener and water-dispersible black colors (example of paragraph 35). The softening temperature of the cured film was 170 deg. In paragraph 13, he discloses an equivalent weight of 1000-20,000. When a reference discloses all the limitations of a claim except for a property (number of hydrophilic equivalents of water-borne polyurethane or resin coated pigment), and the examiner can't determine if the properties are inherent, the burden of showing a difference is shifted to the applicant as in In re Fitzgerald, 205 USPQ 594 (See MPEP 2112). When a reference teaches a product that appears to be the same as a product set forth in a product-by-process claim (the water-borne polyurethane), the burden is shifted to the applicant. See In re Marosi, 218 USPQ 289 and MPEP 2113.

In this case, the reference is silent about the process.

Applicant's arguments filed 1-4-05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The applicants argue that their claims have limitations not found in the reference. The examiner can't determine if the components of the reference have these properties. The water-borne polyurethane of the adhesive is a Dainippon product. The applicants could easily determine if the adhesive of the reference is the same as that of the claims.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
